#ADayInUnion, has the support of rugby clubs and schools across Australia and around the world, and luminaries of the game such as Michael Hooper, Grace Hamilton, Alicia Lucas, Gordon Bray & Sir Peter Cosgrove.

It is a grass-roots movement founded by a group of community rugby supporters to bring rugby people together and share with the broader community a rugby perspective on belonging through friendship, connection & fun.

How your Club or School can get involved

1. Help spread the word

Let your rugby community know about the day and what they can do to be part of it. To make things simple, you can use the example tile & text included at the end of this kit and in the public Dropbox folder.

2. On the weekend of 6 April, join in the fun

Take a photo or make a video that reflects how rugby brings people together and share your celebrations on your social media channels using the hashtag #ADayInUnion

Post whatever they like, but the icon image for the day is the rugby huddle as pictured below. Being part of #ADayInUnion is as simple as recreating the huddle with players and supporters and sharing it on social media with the hashtag #ADayInUnion

3. Take it further

Why not capitalise on the publicity surrounding the day and hold a come 'n try day, club reunion, or drinks after training? Some clubs are attempting to set a record for the biggest ever scrum at their club, as a way to bring players past and present together. Take a photo or video and post it with the #ADayInUnion, great fun!

SATURDAY 6 April 2024 is #ADayInUnion 🏉

As some of you may have heard about or seen online, Saturday 6 April is #ADayInUnion - a day for rugby people across Australia to celebrate everything we love about our great game.

This is a grassroots movement that simply encourages anyone at any level to share a favourite rugby photo or video online using the hashtag #ADayInUnion, on the weekend of 6 April.

It's a chance to bring all of those positive stories about rugby and our grassroots communities into the spotlight.

We'd love to see players and supporters, past & present share their favourite rugby moment, or a photo in their club jersey, reach out to old team-mates, watch a game, whatever works for you, but be part of the day and post a photo or video using #ADayInUnion

#ADayInUnion is purely a social movement to promote the game, it's not associated with Rugby Australia, or any of the professional franchises (although they are supporting it).

You can check out more information at their website www.adayinunion.com or their socials @adayinunion or #ADayInUnion to see messages from people such as Michael Hooper, General Sir Peter Cosgrove, Grace Hamilton, Gordon Bray and many others.

We'll be posting separately about activities we'll be holding at the Club on the weekend of 6 April.
